Adderall dosage for adults

The following information describes the commonly recommended or normal Adderall dosages in adults. However, be sure to take the dosage your doctor prescribes for you. Your doctor will determine the best dosage to fit your needs. In some cases, doctors may adjust your dosage from those shown below.

Dosage for narcolepsy

Adderall is also approved to treat narcolepsy in adults. Adderall XR capsule is not approved for this use.

The recommended starting dose of Adderall tablet for narcolepsy is 10 mg. You'll usually take this amount once daily or in divided doses throughout the day. After a week, your doctor may recommend increasing your dosage to 20 mg daily.

If this dose isn't working for you, your doctor may recommend increasing your dose by 10 mg each week to find the right amount for you.

The maximum dosage of Adderall for narcolepsy is 60 mg daily. It's usually divided into two or three doses taken throughout the day.

How to take Adderall?

Adderall tablet is swallowed whole, with or without food. If needed, you can cut the tablet in half using the markings on the edge of the tablet as a guide.

Your first Adderall tablet dose of the day should be taken when you first wake up. This is usually in the morning. If your doctor recommends it, you may take one or two additional
